HONGKONG, FEBRUARY 9TH 1385.

The author of the pumphlet on "The Defences of Hongkong" has done good service in directing public attention more closely to the question of the fortification of this Colony. He expects his statements to be questioned and criticised, and many of them are open to criticism, as Major LLOYD has already shown, but the pumphleteer has madesome suggestions which are well worthy of consideration and will, we hope, not be re-engraved in a superior style and brought up lost sight of. It is admitted by all that Hongkong should be fortified, but there are differences of opinion as to the manner in which this should be accomplished. "It seems to us that we have to do the best we can for the money that has been voted for the purpose, and to supplement the fortifies tions by a judicious use of the Wivern and the torpeda boats. The latter ought to baincreased in number. In addition there are the Esk and Tweed, which would also be available for harbour defence. The pamphleteer contends, firstly, that a desermated fort, full Chronology of remarkable events since which could not be carried by a coup, de main, should be constructed in the Ly.ee. moon Pass, and that this work, if aided by a small corps of torpedoists, would render the channel impassable to any fleet. He urges that the forts at North Point and Hung Ham are not only useless but dangerous, as the formeris commanded from "hundreds of casemated forts are so expensive that one period of forty years. His sympathies have come into operation, also tables of COURY such work would nearly absorb the entire always been ardently enlisted in his work, contribution of the Colony, while they are not so impregnable as is commonly supposed. He also points out that in a casemated fort the guns are massed together, and cannot be worked so effectively as where they are scattered and their fire can be converged. Major LLoyn admits, however, that there to enumerate in an Advertisement, but include - should be a powerful fort at the entrance of the Ly-ee-moon Pass, and this, we have every reason to believe—it being part of the scheme rely upon the North Point and Hung Ham get so far in as to attack those defences. the docks and town would be sure to suffer of the contest. The proposal of the pamphleteer that a fort should be erected on Green Island is a good one enough, but we must contemporaries as residents out here. agree with Major LLOYD that it would not be anfe torely on this alone to defend the western in Canton some ten years before, and passage at the back of Stonecutter's Island felt anchored to the spot, and it is no doubt they made sufficient noise to awaken Mrs. Legge, an effort to tear himself away even to visit -could not be defended in any degree from Green Island. To rely upon a single fort on Green Island only to defend the western channels to the harbour would be exceedingly risky. A for the armament to be employed in the forts, there cannot be two opinions on the subject. The guns should be of the best other defences. We have always thought the south side of the island ought to have some protection, as there can be no question that, if a landing February, owing to the unfavourable weather for were at any time attempted by an enemy it would be there. The author of the pamphlet justly says that, in the absence of the Legislative Council at a recent meeting was fleet, the island is defenceless on its southern side. We endorse the opinion of the pamphleteer that there should be a fort somewhere near Aberdeen, perhaps on Tree Island, and we are also disposed to think that a few guns mounted near the Gap might be a useful precaution against an attempt at surprise in that direction. It is to be regretted that Major Lhoyn refrained from expressing any opinion as to the importance of some defence for the south of the island. We sincerely hope this har not been omitted from the scheme of defence altogether. We should also like to know whether it will be possible to train some of the gues of the Belcher's Point Battery so as to command the Pokfulum Road, as at present there is nothing to hinder the march into town of a landing party along that road from Aberdeen. business communications be addressed to the All the batteries that are exposed to attack should, we think, be provided with machine 121 guns. HAPPER, D.D., of Canton, is worthy of passing note, not only because of the reverend gentleman's attainments and his labours as a missionary, but also on account of his lengthened residence in China. Dr. HAPPER is a link with the past, one of the old landmarks, so to speak, which connect the rise of Hongkong with the former history of foreign residence with Canton. London, 4th January. The St. James's Gazette says there is reason to fear that Germany proposes to purchase the Dutch portion of New Guinea. LONDON, 6th January.

The Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, President of the Board of Trade, addressed a meeting of his constituents at Birminghamlast night. Mr. Chamborlain referred at some length to the recent course of events in the Western Pacific; and stated that, although England was not entitled to prevent any foreign Power from carrying out schemes of colonisation, still if the rights of Australia were threatened the whole power of England-would be extended in defence of the Australian colonies, which had become of paramount importance in the Pacific within the last half-century.

LONDON, 9th January The question of German annexation in the Pacific continues to cause general interest among the British public, although there is a lack of that excitement which prevailed when the intelligence of the conduct of Germany first became known. General satisfaction is expressed at the fact that the British protectorate is to be extended to Houn Gulf, and to the German boundary when defined.

LONDON, 14th January: Sir Charles Dilke, speaking at a meeting held at Kensington last night, expressed as his opinion that recent events would entail a modification in the Foreign and Colonial policy of Great Britain THE GERMANS AT NEW BEITAIN. LONDON. 7th January.

THE SAMOAN QUESTION.

LONDON, 10th January. The Earl of Derby, Secretary of State for the Colonies, views with disfavour the projected annexation of Samos by the Government of New Zealand. Intelligence from Berlin states that it is generally believed there that Germany and the United States will formally protest against any such annexation. LONDON, 11th January. In the Reichstag yesterday Prince Bismarck stated that the action of New Zealand in proposing to annex Samoa was a proof that delay was damaging to Germany. He also mentioned that a report was current that the natives of New Guines were opposing the Germans, and implied that the Euglish were inciting them to determined upon an increase in the duties on effect. do so. LONDON, 12th January. Prince Bismarck, in the Reichstag yesterday stated if England approved of the hostility of the colonists to the German annexations in the Pacific it would be necessary for Germany to support her policy by the aid of the Powers or posed to England. He further stated his great surprise at the proposal of New Zealand to break the mutual agreement by annexing the Samoss. Prince Bismarck has since stated that it is understood between the Governments of Great Britain and Germany that the status at present existing in Samos is not to be altered without a mutual agreement between the two countries. He further disclaims any idea of war with Eug-land, and has every confidence that the differences between the two countries will be settled by goodwill and diplomacy. The Imperial Government have refused to permit the annexation of Samoa by New Zealand, on the ground that a mutual agreement is being arranged between Germany and Great Britain, whereby both countries agree to maintain the Thought I, "Tis winter;" then I thought, "Not so, freedom of Samoa and Tongs. freedom of Samos and Tongs. The Standard of to-day states that negotia-
